

New Jersey Kids Count 2013

Rankings at a Glance

Each year, Advocates for Children of New Jersey ranks all of the state's 21 counties on 13 measures of child well-being, such as poverty, child and maternal health and education. These rankings are intended to help counties understand trends, identify children's needs and respond to those needs, so that every child has a chance to grow up safe, healthy and educated.

Below are the overall rankings for 2013 and a chart showing which counties improved, declined or remained the same in the Kids Count rankings.
